

~~SECRET~~

U 9 10 10

U 11

Intelligence Officer (Analyst) - Grades P-3 and P-4

Incumbent serves as a technical analyst working under the general supervision of the Section Chief who assigns specific technical and analysis projects and indicates the desired objective and coverage. Projects originally developed or synthesized by incumbent are reviewed by the Section Chief to assure that the desired goals have been attained.

Incumbent, working independently within limits of supervision, determines sources of information, prepares collection requirements, analyzes, evaluates and coordinates data and prepares analytical reports on assigned topics involving special aspects of the national economy as it relates to the security of the United States; assists in the review and synthesis of technical analyses prepared by other Sections; and reviews research studies completed by other government agencies, private industries and institutions to determine their value as source material.

Incumbent analyzes material coming into the office, calling to the attention of superiors, items which he feels they should see immediately.

Incumbent must have the following minimum qualifications:

- a. Completion of all work leading to a doctor of philosophy degree with specialization in some field of economics, engineering, or related subjects; or
- b. Two or more years of college or university training plus practical experience to total seven years.

~~SECRET~~